RECTOR'S COLUMN

*The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Spirit be with all of you.
2 Cor 12:13*

Dear Friends,

Trinity is hosting many special events this month. On May 19th, Trinity is holding a Latin Nights Dinner and Auction Gala, which will include a live auction as well as a silent auction, a fantastic dinner, raffles, and music by the Tijuana Blast band. At the 10:00 am service on Pentecost Sunday on May 20th, we will welcome the families and friends of two members who will be baptized at the 10:00 am service on Pentecost. At a special combined morning service on Trinity Sunday, May 27th, we will be joined by The Rt. Rev. Bishop Greg Rickel, who will preside and preach at the service.

It feels like the wheel of the seasons has at last turned to a true spring and all of life is ready to celebrate. There is something to love in every season, and what I have appreciated over the past few days has been seeing the soft green of newly unfolding leaves on the trees. When the skies have been clear and the sun brilliant, I have enjoyed unfolding my sunglasses from where they have been stored in my glovebox for the past many months.

Driving through the countryside of Washington reminds me of all there is to be thankful for in life beyond myself. When the news of the world presses in, the freedom of driving in sunlight and wind in the midst of God's creation reminds me of all that is bigger and brighter. Even as my prayers are full of concern for victims of war, oppression and violence in nations far away and in our own country, my spirit is renewed by the fullness of beauty and promise that life finds a way. Even in the midst of rubble, in the trouble of our days, life reaches into our hearts and opens up a window through which the bird of the Spirit can fly free from its cage of mourning or worry or despair.

We were not made for despair. We were made for love. Sometimes the cage from which we must break free is the cage within our hearts that keep us from engaging others in ways that promise respect to those who have not known it, provide safety to those who are vulnerable, and reach out in genuine peace to those who fear that they will be met with intolerance. Messages from our own families of origin or messages that inundate us from the society and people around us can cage us within a sense of unworthiness such that we may not even value ourselves.

Diana Butler Bass is an author, speaker, and independent scholar specializing in American religion and culture. Recently, she shared that in these times, people frequently tell her stories of families and friendships that are frayed and broken because of political differences. She is struggling with this issue herself, in her relationship with her own brother. Diana asked, "[Are] any of you struggling with this? I'm at a loss as to what to do."

Though political differences are not the issue in my own family, this was the reply that I offered to the conversation:

I am an Episcopal priest in a birth family of atheists who tore me down every day of my life for years and still can when opportunity arises. I never discuss my beliefs, I never raise the topic of faith, and I don't have the expectation that they should believe as I do. When they get emotionally abusive or employ paternalistic sarcasm, it comes from their own discomfort. I sincerely just walk away to do something else. If they ask me a reasonable question, I answer; I'm glad to encourage genuine connection and relationship. I don't mount a defensive argument, and I don't return abuse with abuse. I just keep in touch, show my care of them, and focus on what's important to me without needing them to think it's important, too.

Love motivates my desire to be in relationship with family members who disagree with my beliefs. I want to be connected with them, and I know that even though we might want to wring each other's necks from time to time, when one of us is in true trouble, all the rest of us come to their aid without question and without condition.

By contrast, there are other families in which there is no underlying investment. Certain personalities may be narcissistic or bear no empathy whatsoever for any living thing, much less another relative. In such instances, remaining in such a relationship is likely not healthy and may lead to a grieving process that comes when we recognize that the relationship we wish we could have is never going to be possible.

Jesus acknowledged the difference between challenging relationships and relationships that simply do not exist, no matter how much we might want them to exist. He grieved for relationships that could not be had and "longed to draw all the world to himself," as we hear in our Eucharistic prayer at the time of communion. Yet, he was willing to do battle with Peter, even to forgive Peter's denial of Jesus at the end, because for Christ that was a relationship the two men actually very much wanted. The more we love one another, the greater the pain that can be caused when there are differences and when harsh words are exchanged. For example, "Get behind me, Satan!" is not exactly a loving verbal embrace.

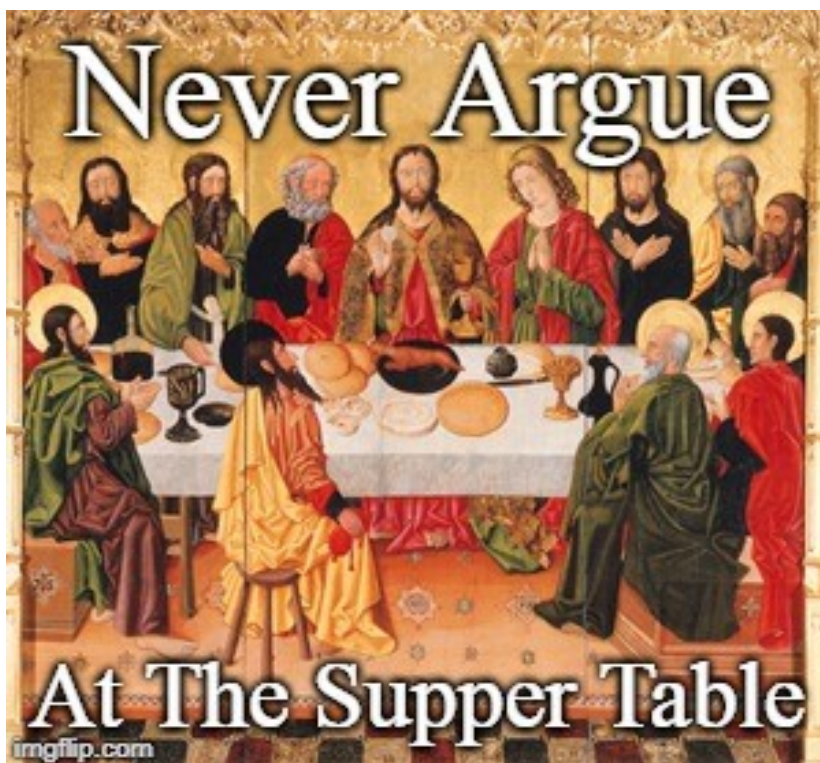

What draws us together at the end of the day is the particular expression of love that we might call "gratitude." In spite of every hard time I have ever received from my family members, I'm glad that I have them in my life. I'm grateful for their vulnerability, for their talents and abilities, and for their commitment to being there for me when the going goes beyond "tough" and reaches "over the cliff crash and burn."

This summer, I will be leading a book study of Dianna Butler Bass' recently published book, Grateful: The Transformative Power of Giving Thanks. The book has been described as a text and model of resilience and resistance. Gratitude is good for our weary hearts and can support and restore our health in times of stress and worry. The book study series will be held on Wednesday evenings in June [6, 13, 20, 27] at 7:00 pm. The book can be purchased on Amazon or at Barnes & Noble. Please contact the church office if you need a copy of the book to be provided for you, if cost is an issue.

In the meantime, May is setting up to be a month of many celebrations of which to be grateful and opportunities to share our gratitude for the dedication of so many members of our community who are committed to supporting our fundraising efforts, our community gatherings, and our ability to baptize, confirm and welcome new members and friends into the continuing community of gratitude and love that is Trinity Episcopal Church.

In Christ's Peace,
Pastor Rachel+

The Rev. Rachel Taber-Hamilton, Rector

Join us for our combined service at 9:00 am on Trinity Sunday, May 27, 2018.

The Rt. Rev. Greg Rickel will be visiting us and will preside at the service. The Rev. Pat Grodt will serve as Deacon. Following the combined morning service, St. Mary's Altar Guild will host a reception in Rogers Hall. At the reception, there will be an opportunity for hear from the bishop about issues central to The General Convention of The Episcopal Church, being held this July in Austin, TX. Pastor Rachel is an elected Clergy Deputy representing the Diocese of Olympia and will be attending The General Convention along with Bishop Rickel and a full deputation of 5 clergy and 5 lay representatives.

During the service, Bishop Rickel will confirm/receive six members of Trinity: Andraya LaFredo, Alex Moser, Morgan Crosby, Karl Rabel, Nancy Rabel, and Don Olin.

Given that Trinity is an historic Victory Memorial dedicated to those who were killed in World War I, it is especially appropriate that this year Trinity Sunday falls on Memorial Day Weekend, as the year celebrating our 125th year since Trinity's founding on Trinity Sunday 1892 comes to its close.

So, please join us for this year's very special Trinity Sunday celebration and reception.

FROM THE SENIOR WARDEN

"Give Thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you."

1 Thessalonian 5:18

It has been a month since we were together celebrating Holy Week and the Resurrection of our Lord on Easter Sunday. And yet today, I continue to feel the power from an amazing celebration of liturgy, music, and environment that so many people worked very hard to put together. So, I want to once more thank from the bottom of my heart the many groups and individuals who made it possible, from our Altar Guild, Verger, Acolytes, Choir, Bell Choir, Children's Choir, Office Staff, late night volunteers, and of course Pastor Rachel. I will not stop there, I also want to thank every one of you who attended the Holy Week and Easter services, because each one of you makes our congregation special and each of you being present is what allows us as a parish to witness the love of god and the effort that all of our volunteers put together.

All this effort from our volunteers and the welcoming atmosphere that each one of you helps create is noticed by those who visit our church. I had the pleasure of receiving a letter after Easter from Maestro David di Fiore, who many of you will recognize as our guest organist this past Easter and someone who has joined us in the past for other occasions to share his wonderful talents with our congregation. With his permission, I am delighted to share this letter with the entire congregation as a reminder to all of us of the many blessings we have and share in our parish.

April 11, 2018

Dear Vestry,

I wanted to first thank you for the wonderful experiences I have had at Trinity, Everett, and especially to thank David Spring, and Reverend Rachel Taber-Hamilton for their amazing skills. I teach on the faculty of Catholic University in Ruzomerok, Slovak Republic. I teach organ, organ related worship courses, improvisation and choral conducting. Because my family lives in the Seattle area I have had the great pleasure, for two Christmas, and one Easter service, of collaboration with your highly skilled Music Director and superb Rector when I came to the area for a holiday visit.

Rachel is one of the best liturgists and preachers I have encountered in my very long career. I was involved in church music for about 55 years before I decided to devote the rest of my career to teaching and performing. I have been so impressed with her at the helm and want you to know that from an objective outsider, believe me when I say that you are beyond fortunate to have such a rector. In 55 years I have experienced some very good and some...well, shall we say, not so good pastors. Rachel is at the top for sure, being an impressive liturgist and engaging preacher. And I really loved the high church ritual she had designed but also the non-stuffy manner with which she presides. I don't think I will ever forget the baptismal renewal J. I admire her passion for social justice and the fact that she is sought after for leadership in the greater Episcopal Church, which also shows a high level of respect from her colleagues. Her welcoming personality and pastoral care are beyond

David has put together a wonderful music program, and has brought Trinity to a high level, which few churches will ever experience. When I direct the choir and they say to me, "we've heard this before" as I tell them about some vocal/choral technique, I know that they are in excellent hands. When I conducted, I was so happy that David was playing because he is a sensitive and intuitive accompanist, and I can concentrate on the choir and not have to be concerned about him because he knows my every move. His hymn playing is authoritative, and his conducting equally as good. His arrangements of hymns and work with the instrumentalists are inspiring, and his work with the children's choir delightful. His choice of choral repertoire is masterful and the visibility he has brought to Trinity's music program is a true gem. I noticed the large choir, which for sure is the mark of a fine director.

Your congregation is very friendly and I feel very comfortable and welcome when I am either playing/directing with David, or as a worshipper. I had friends visit on Easter Sunday, and they reacted exactly as I have.

Thank you for welcoming the stranger and for your very friendly congregation.

Most Sincerely,

David di Fiore

I pray that the power of this year's Holy Week and the Resurrection of our Lord will continue to give our congregation strength, guidance and love as we continue working all of our ministries and challenges ahead of us.

Last month I shared with you some news about the team that was forming by at-large and vestry members to work on a comprehensive Stewardship plan for our sustainable future. That group has been put establish and will soon begin meetings with the guidance of the Kaleidoscope Institute. Reports, activities and help from the congregation will soon begin to be reported.

By now, I'm sure you've heard many times about our upcoming Dinner & Auction Gala event scheduled for Saturday, May 19th starting at 5:30 PM. This year the theme will be Latin Nights featuring the Tijuana Blast Band and all proceeds from the night will go towards helping us pay the Endowments fund loan, which was taken to help us balance our budget this year. There are many ways in which you can participate and support including attending the dinner, buying raffle tickets or donating items that will be auctioned during the night. A vestry member will be selling tickets and collecting donations after Sunday services. I encourage you to join us in this event and don't be shy to bring friends or co-workers, which as previous years looks to be a night great fun!

Blessing to all,

Gonzalo Canseco

TREASURER TIDBITS

I hope you all are enjoying an amazing start to Spring and are looking forward to summer. I know that this time of year, with the blooming flowers their aromas memories of days past often just waft into my mind and I start day dreaming about my summer vacation.

A huge thank you to all who are making their pledges faithfully each week and to those who are putting money in the plate every Sunday. Thanks to you, our pledge and plate/contribution income through 1st quarter is nearly right on track. We are running about 4.8% behind on income planned year to date ($4,000). There are several reasons for this, but the bottom line is that if you have more you can give to support Trinity it will be appreciated beyond measure!.

You will remember that we approved up to a $50,000 loan from the endowments for 2018. I am pleased to report that through 1st quarter we have only had to take $5,000 of this (we were approved for $12,500 per quarter).

This is amazing news. And if you think about our $4,000 deficit in income for the quarter- if we could have gotten that in, we would not have had to borrow anything during the 1st quarter- or only $1000. Either way- this is pretty amazing and God does provide.

We are now headed into the start of planning for the summer months, Rachel being gone for General Convention in July and travel time that takes us all away from our home Church. Please make sure you have your pledge/giving set up for automatic payments if possible so that our monthly expense can be met. Also, please pray about helping us close the gap in our income so that we can continue to not dip into our endowments.

With all vacation plans, I am sure we each are spending hundreds if not thousands of dollars on our time away. I humbly ask each of us to step back and compare what we are spending on a one time adventure compared to our annual pledge here at Trinity. Are you spending more on a one or two or three week vacation than you are giving annually to the Church that provides so much to each of us throughout the year? What if each of us re-allocated just a portion of our vacation funds to add to the plate or as a one-time special gift to Trinity this year or to increase our annual pledge? I suspect if every family, including my own, took just 10-20% of the allocated vacation money and gave that back to God, we would have not need to dip into our endowments for a loan. We would have no need to have conversations later in the year as we look at 2019 about do we cut the office hours and or music program to make the budget. We would likely have no need to look at do we have to find a different physical plant/location. We would likely be finding ways to spend money out in the community doing outreach that impacts humanity in and around our congregation.

So, my challenge to each of you is to take a look at what you are spending this year on your summer get away and really prayerfully compare this to what you are giving back to the God that is allowing you to take this outing or to look at your overall budget for eating out or getting coffee and compare this to what you are giving. Are we spending more on things that give us pleasure than we are on God? If so, how can each of us reprioritize this and increase what we are giving back to God and to Trinity.

Blessings,
David Kosar
Treasurer

MUSIC PROGRAM NEWS

A few notes from the music director.....

Having just returned from my nephew's wedding in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, I am ever more aware of the value of family and community. Many people from around the U.S. arrived to celebrate. The wedding party and guests (and workers for the event) traveled via chartered boat in the ocean to a remote village, in a jungle/beach setting that reminded me of "Gilligan's Island." (We were singing the "Three hour tour" song in the boat!) Once all were settled, a Mariachi band provided a beautiful accompaniment for a not-so-solemn wedding procession, a brief ceremony, and a fiesta reception with dancing and toasts. There were tears of joy, laughter, and lots of connecting and re-connecting. The extremely friendly locals worked very hard to make the event special, and to treat all the guests like family.

That same hospitality toward all is one of the reasons I love visiting Mexico. They have gotten some bad press, and some politicians haven't been kind to the people there. Of course, there are bad people there-- and here—and not wanting to get into debate, I have always admired the caring, hard work ethic, deep religious faith, and great joy among people there, even those who live in poverty. God, family, and community are the center of life. Sometimes that "simpler" life escapes us in the Pacific NW, with our faster pace of life and juggling of activities. As summer approaches, it is my hope that we at Trinity will be ever more mindful of our own community members who have a need or hurt that needs addressing, as well as visitors looking to be part of a caring family sharing our spiritual journeys. Why not Trinity?

We have a several wonderful "family" celebrations this month and next: Mother's Day will have special music from a MEN'S CHOIR (our choir men plus other guys who'd like to give it a try!), plus our Junior Choir. We will celebrate new Christian life on the Feast of Pentecost, May 22. Then, our parish will come together as one for Trinity Sunday, May 27, and will celebrate the Sacrament of Confirmation with Bishop Rickel at one combined 9:00am service. Our last musical celebration before summer will be on Father's Day, with some special music provided by the women of the choir and our kids as well. I hope many of us will be on hand to enjoy these special events... a great time to bring friends who might enjoy our family.

JUNIOR CHOIR & CHIMES: After our post-Easter break, we are gearing up again for Mothers' Day and the other upcoming special events. Practices resume for all the Sundays of May (except May 27, when we will sing for the special service with Bishop Rickel on Trinity Sunday.) Join us after church for some pizza/snacks and music making 11:30-12:30 every Sunday.

CALLING ALL MEN: We are inviting any men who like to sing to join our special MEN'S CHOIR for MOTHERS' DAY (May 12). We will sing at 10:00am, and possibly 8:00 as well if enough singers can do so. Practices will be part of the regular choir practice on Thursday nights May 3 & 10, and Sunday May 6 after church. If you are not sure if this will work for you, I'd be happy to meet with you privately to help you decide. The exact times for practice will depend on the schedules of who participates. So... please let me know!

Trinity Youth Group NEWS FLASH

On Friday April 20th, TYG had its monthly Youth night where a variety of topics around Meals were covered. The group got to enjoy some cooking lessons as they jointly prepared a meal; the faith formation aspects centered on the topic of a "Poverty Meal" where everyone received the same meal as a family that has to live in poverty conditions and there was discussion centered on poverty in our own country and around the world.

Pastor Rachel, as our guest speaker covered a very important topic of sustainability for our World through the wonderful use of the book: "If the world were a Village."

And of course, it wouldn't be a good night if it didn't end with a good game of Oreo cookies challenge!

ACOLYTES

Don Wayne and myself would like to thank the Acolytes for their AWESOME teamwork, willingness to learn, their hard work and dedication and their flexibility. They had a lot of new things thrown at them during Holy Week and a lot of changes that they handled beautifully!

If you have a child age 10 and up that would like to become an acolyte please find either Don Wayne or myself.

Thanks!

PRAYER SHAWL MINISTRY

This has been a busy year for the shawl ministry. We have blessed 79 shawls and sent 39 shawls from the 79 to hospice. We also have blessed 42 pocket prayer shawls. On Sunday April 22nd we blessed 2 shawls after the 8 AM service and both shawls were claimed right away. Marie Bond knitted a shawl to bring on Sunday to be blessed and had a call for an immediate need for a shawl. So Fr. Wayne did what we call a drive by blessing in his home on the dining room table. This happens quite often, thanks for Fr. Wayne and Marie.

Kelly in the office called Marie Bond with a special request for a blue and purple shawl for someone in Eastern Washington. Two shawls had already been sent to a mother and daughter. The ailing mother treasured her shawl so much that her last request was to be buried with her shawl in the casket. Afterward is when the daughter asked that a third shawl (purple and blue) be sent for her friend. Being buried with a shawl is not so unusual. That just shows what a big impact a simple blessed shawl can mean to someone.

Our next meeting is Saturday, May 5th at 10 AM-11 AM in the guild room. Please join us as we need many hands to fulfill the need in our community and beyond. Come hear more stories of our shawls and join in the fun of just being together.

DAUGHTERS OF THE KING

Meetings

There was no April meeting. The May meeting is Sunday, May 6 at 11:30 am in the parish hall. Please remember to bring a bible, your inspiration and your answers to Study Question 1.

The Masters Fund

The Order of the Daughters of the King supports higher education in leadership development and service for Episcopal church-related careers for women. The Master's Fund was inaugurated at the Order's Triennial Convention in 1922. It is intended to assist Daughters and other women to prepare for church-related work. Enrollment at any accredited college, university or graduate school is permitted. The Master's Fund ingathering is Pentecost, May 20, 2018.

Reading and Reflection

Acts 10:28 And [Peter] said to them, "You yourselves know that it is unlawful for a Jew to associate with or to visit a Gentile; but God has shown me that I should not call anyone profane or unclean."

Fear. Anxiety. Uncertainty. Security. Prejudice. These emotions and more prompt us to place labels on people. These labels offer tidy definitions that help us deal with people who are different from us. The problem is that humans are far too complex to be fully understood or completely categorized. We are very much and very many and far beyond labeling.

The work of God, from the beginning of time until right now, is creating and collecting. Even when God sets a nation apart, God does so in order to make the nation a light and example to the entire world about how to live in covenantal relationship with each another and with God. Acts is the story of a gospel that is bigger than one people, bigger than any concept that has come before it. We see in these stories that God is indeed making all things new and calling all of creation into reconciliation and restoration. And that is quite a story.

From Forward Movement, Sunday, April 22, 2018.

DOK Motto: I am but one, but I am one. I cannot do everything, but I can do something. What I can do, I ought to do. What I ought to do, by the Grace of God I will do.

Lord, what will you have me do?

AUCTION ITEMS NEEDED

May 19th is coming soon, and we still need your special item to make our silent auction at the Latin Nights Dinner and Auction Gala a record-breaking success. What are we looking for? Housewares, collectibles, antiques, gift baskets, offers of services, sporting event tickets, vacation stays, restaurant gift certificates, etc. The list is as long as your imagination!

Many wonderful items have been donated already, including: an ornate, gold-framed mirror; tickets to a Seattle Sounders game; a hand-made pottery planter; Seahawks official NFL beach towel and ski cap, two nights at Whistler, and a Starbucks gift basket.

Please fill out an auction item donation form, available in the narthex or the church office, and return it as soon as possible. The item(s) don't have to be delivered until the week of the auction, although we do have a secure storage area if you would like to bring them sooner.

If you have any questions, please contact Carol Bartley (425-315-7484) or gtopaz@juno.com.
